

IMPACT REPORT 2023

ABC'S MISSION:

American Bird Conservancy (ABC) is dedicated to conserving wild birds and their habitats throughout the Americas.

ABC'S STRATEGIC BIRD CONSERVATION FRAMEWORK:

This simple yet effective framework outlines the high-level outcomes we work to achieve. >>>

FOCUS ON HABITAT:

As we work toward the outcomes shown above, we focus on providing the healthy habitat conditions birds need most — on the ground, in the water, and in the air. In the following pages, we're proud to present highlights of this work.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Partners and Supporters:

The future for the Glittering Starfrontlet and Golden-winged Warbler — and hundreds of other bird species across the Americas — looks brighter this year, thanks to your support of American Bird Conservancy (ABC)!

As you'll read in the following pages, in 2023, we supported habitat conservation for some of the Western Hemisphere's rarest birds — enabling irreplaceable species to edge away from extinction. We worked with landowners and communities across vast landscapes, to provide habitat that declining birds need to survive and thrive. We continued to take on tough fights, too: demanding action where free-roaming cats threaten endangered birds, speaking out about the risks of wind turbines in essential bird habitats, and asking elected officials to take a stand against pesticides that sicken birds and people.

As proud as I am to report on some of these conservation successes here, I'm even more proud of how ABC gets the work done. We maintain a resolute commitment to our principles, including operating with respect and integrity — knowing that we will accomplish more for birds when we recognize and accept that differences in people and their perspectives enable more powerful results. We welcome everyone who wants to make a difference for birds. And, we are steadfast in our mission — guided by the bird conservation framework (see left-hand page) that steers us toward success year after year.

The results we present here are your results, too. Thank you for believing in our mission, entrusting us with your support, and sharing our optimism that together, we can create a bright future for the birds that make our world so wondrous.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Parr
President

PREVENTING BIRD EXTINCTIONS

For the most endangered birds, every acre of habitat matters. To prevent extinctions in Latin America and the Caribbean in 2023, ABC helped conserve 30,000 acres of habitat in new and expanded protected areas. Cumulatively, we've protected more than 1.1 million acres and planted more than 7.5 million trees and shrubs to restore vital habitats. These efforts benefit people, too, by conserving water; sequestering carbon to help combat climate change; and more.

Highlights:

- ◆ In Colombia, ABC worked with Fundación EcoHabitats to protect 7,000 acres to support recovery of the Critically Endangered Gorgeted Puffleg, a small hummingbird found only in one area of the western Andes Mountains. We also worked with Fundación Bioconservancy to secure over 1,700 acres for the Glittering Starfrontlet, another endemic Colombian hummingbird. Other rare Colombian species also benefited from newly protected habitat, including the Antioquia Brushfinch, Black-and-chestnut Eagle, Cundinamarca Antpitta, and Upper Magdalena Tapaculo.
- ABC supported habitat protection for many other rare species in 2023, such as the Cherry-throated Tanager (Brazil); Great Green Macaw (Costa Rica); Markham's Storm-Petrel (Chile); Banded Ground-Cuckoo, Blue-throated Hillstar, and Purple Quail-Dove (Ecuador); and Short-crested Coquette (Mexico).
- ◆ In Hawai'i, where 12 species of endangered forest birds must be saved from extinction, ABC and partners took a major step forward in our urgent Birds, Not Mosquitoes effort to combat deadly, mosquito-borne avian malaria. Helicopters delivered the first groups of male mosquitoes containing a naturally occurring bacteria incompatible with wild mosquitoes, on Maui and Kaua'i. Females mating with the incompatible males will produce infertile eggs — ultimately reducing mosquito populations and curbing transmission of avian malaria to birds like the Kiwikiu and 'Akeke'e.
- ◆ Also in Hawai'i, the Millerbird is no longer on the brink of extinction. This welcome news was reflected in the 2023 decision by the International Union for Conservation of Nature to downlist the conservation status of the Millerbird from Critically Endangered to Endangered. The move came a dozen years after the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, ABC, and other partners translocated 50 Millerbirds from Nihoa to Laysan (Kauō), two islands in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands. A population of Millerbirds on Laysan went extinct in the 1920s due to invasive mammals. Today, the 50 translocated birds have become several hundred and expanded into all the vegetated parts of Laysan.
- ◆ New hope emerged for the Critically Endangered Blue-eyed Ground-Dove, a Brazilian endemic that numbers only about 16 wild individuals. Nesting success in the wild is low due to predation, but in 2023, conservationists successfully hand-raised two dove chicks, a sign that captive breeding is possible and can help boost the bird's population. Several partner organizations, including Parque das Aves, SAVE Brasil, the Latin American Reserve Stewardship Initiative (a program of ABC and March Conservation Fund), and the Toledo Zoo are involved in the project.
- ◆ The Search for Lost Birds, a collaboration of ABC, BirdLife International, and Re:wild, defied the odds and rediscovered the Dusky Tetraka in Madagascar. This small, olive-colored and yellow-throated bird had eluded ornithologists for 24 years.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Beth Wallace, Contract Database Manager

Although ABC hired Beth in early 2006, she had volunteered for the organization for several years before that. Now, after nearly 20 years as a staff member, she has adapted and advanced with ABC's changing administrative needs and responsibilities. "ABC is growing, and we're getting new systems to deal with the complexity of our grants and contracts," she says. With her colleagues, Beth now manages the system that helps to organize ABC's growing lineup of projects that help to prevent extinctions, and much more.

"I believe in ABC's conservation mission," Beth says, "and I think that ABC makes a difference with all of the things we do for birds and the habitats they share with so much other wildlife. I like working with great people who are so dedicated and who share enthusiasm for making the world a better place."

Such values are woven into the fabric of Beth's life. "When I was a teenager growing up in New Zealand," she says, "my family participated in tree-planting and habitat restoration activities on the island where we vacationed. Threatened native birds were later translocated into those areas."

Beth holds Bachelor's and Master's degrees in zoology from the University of Otago in New Zealand. She has extensive experience studying birds, including her Master's research on vocal recognition among Adélie Penguins in Antarctica. She also has worked as a field technician studying songbirds in Ontario and Cuba, and the Northern Bobwhite in Missouri.

In her spare time, Beth enjoys hiking, birding, and reading.

REVERSING BIRD POPULATION DECLINES

To reverse the massive declines of migratory birds, we need to work across vast landscapes. That's what ABC and our partners strive for through our BirdScapes approach — helping to ensure that birds have the habitats they need, from breeding grounds to wintering spots and stopovers in between. Working closely with Migratory Bird Joint Ventures (JVs) and their partners, we together improved 9.3 million acres of priority habitat from 2007 to 2023.

Highlights in the United States:

- ◆ ABC's team in the Southwest continues to enhance grassland habitat in west and south Texas, thanks to the Rio Grande Joint Venture's (RGJV) Chihuahuan Desert Conservation Partnership and the South Texas Grassland Restoration Incentive Program. By working with land stewards and conservation partners, we're increasing the quantity, quality, and connectivity of habitat for grassland birds in steep decline, including the Chestnut-collared Longspur, Baird's Sparrow, and Eastern Meadowlark. In 2023, the RGJV worked with private landowners to enhance over 4,880 acres using prescribed fire, brush management, fencing, and planting of native grass seed.
- ◆ Grassland birds such as the Northern Bobwhite have been disappearing for decades as habitats are lost to unsustainable grazing, fire suppression, and brush encroachment. In 2023, ABC staff and the Oaks and Prairies Joint Venture provided private landowners with direct technical assistance to improve habitat on 19,397 acres, as well as participating in 23 prescribed burns — a necessary restoration technique for some habitats — totaling 2,230 acres. Our Northern Great Plains program improved habitat on an additional 32,205 acres.
- ◆ As a founding member of the Indigenous Kinship Circle, ABC's Aimee Roberson (Southwest Regional Director), is helping to ensure that the Central Grasslands Roadmap — a collaborative guide to increase conservation of 700 million acres — is enriched and expanded by the inclusion of Indigenous voices, including equitable engagement of and support for Indigenous communities from Canada to Mexico.
- ◆ ABC is helping to lead discussions and planning efforts to recover the Lesser Prairie-Chicken. Working with the Lesser Prairie-Chicken Landowner Alliance and Prairie Grouse Partners, we aim to manage and restore 80 percent of the grasslands in ten 50,000-acre landscapes across the bird's range.
- ◆ Through the Crumb Clean program, our Pacific Northwest team continues its efforts for the Endangered Marbled Murrelet. These unique, tree-nesting seabirds are preyed upon by ravens, crows, and jays, which in turn are attracted to murrelet breeding areas by food refuse left by people who camp and picnic nearby. We're working with partners to educate the public in Oregon to help keep campsites and recreation areas clean.
- ◆ With several partners, we filed suit against the state of Utah in 2023 in an attempt to prevent the Great Salt Lake from drying up. Upstream water diversions for crops, industry, and development are jeopardizing the integrity of the lake, which is used by roughly 10 million birds each year — including most of the continent's Eared Grebes, as well as huge numbers of Red-necked Phalaropes and other shorebirds.
- ◆ ABC's Great Lakes team restored nearly 2,400 acres of early successional habitat on private lands this year. This mix of young trees, grasses, and wildflowers has become rare due to suppression of naturally occurring wildfires, but it's essential for

Liz Brewer, Outreach Specialist, Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture

Although a self-proclaimed introvert, Liz loves bringing people together for birds. She spends her days networking, collaborating, and promoting bird conservation for ABC and the Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture (AMJV), a regional partnership of over 55 state and federal agencies, conservation organizations, and universities.

She and her AMJV colleagues work hard to help inspire landowners to enroll in conservation initiatives that benefit the Wood Thrush, Cerulean Warbler, and other priority species. For example, the federal Natural Resources Conservation Service offers cost-share programs that "help benefit not only our priority birds but also other wildlife and forest health, and these can even have a positive financial impact for landowners," she says. Liz also helps partner organizations create promotional materials that connect them with landowners and the public.

Liz has a Bachelor's degree in forestry from Purdue University. Shortly before her graduation, she visited the ABC website during her job search. There, she was delighted to find an opening for an outreach forester. "This is my dream position," she remembers thinking. "I thought it was a long shot because I was fresh out of college when I applied," says Liz, "yet here I am four years later at ABC."

Outside of work, Liz enjoys "all the typical outdoorsy stuff" around her Appalachian home in West Virginia, including hiking with her partner and two high-energy dogs, birding, and backpacking.

habitat specialists like the Golden-winged Warbler, American Woodcock, and others. In addition, ABC staff worked with Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge to restore 218 acres with prescribed fire, thanks to support from the Minnesota Expedited Regional Conservation Partners Program. Another habitat specialist – the Kirtland's Warbler — will benefit from 100 acres of improved Jack Pine habitat.

- ◆ The Prairie Warbler and Red-headed Woodpecker are among the declining species that rely on oak-hickory forests in Indiana. To ensure these habitats are optimized for birds, the ABC-supported Central Hardwoods Joint Venture completed Forest Stewardship Practices for Oak-Hickory Ecosystems in Indiana, a guide for landowners. The publication was produced through “Let the Sun Shine In,” an initiative launched in 2022 with more than a dozen public and private partners.
- ◆ Open pine forests vital to the Endangered Red-cockaded Woodpecker, declining Common Nighthawk, and many other birds are the focus of ABC staff and partners working with the Lower Mississippi Valley Joint Venture. Through a Natural Resources Conservation Service program, more than $1 million has been allocated to nearly 20 habitat restoration projects in the West Gulf Coastal Plain and Ouachita Mountains.
- ◆ On the Gulf Coast, the SPLASH program — Stopping Plastics and Litter Along Shorelines — has passed the milestone of more than 30,000 pounds of plastic and trash removed from Texas beaches. In one of many events this year, SPLASH partnered with Houston Audubon Society for cleanups on Bolivar Island, removing 1,421 pounds of trash with the help of volunteers. Clean beaches make a difference for birds: Our partners at Gulf Coast Bird Observatory have documented a reduction in annual entanglements of American Oystercatchers from a high of six to zero for each of the past three years.
- ◆ Several ABC people and programs were recognized with awards this year, including Todd Fearer, an ABC staff member and the coordinator of the Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture – a JV that works to reverse declines of the Cerulean Warbler and Wood Thrush, among many other species. Todd received the David Pashley Award from the North American Bird Conservation Initiative (NABCI). The award acknowledges Todd’s excellent work and honors David Pashley, who was NABCI’s first coordinator and served as ABC’s Vice President for U.S. Conservation Partnerships until his death in 2018. And, ABC’s partnership with International Paper was honored with a 2023 Leadership in Sustainability Award from the American Forest and Paper Association. The award in the “Resilient U.S. Forests” category recognized our work to sustain the “diverse values of forests, such as water, carbon, biodiversity, recreation, and forest products.”

Highlights in Latin America and the Caribbean

- ◆ Our work on wintering grounds and stopover sites often involve helping to ensure that working lands are also optimized for birds. For example, in 2023, we saw our efforts to encourage sustainable cacao production pay off with the launch of the Smithsonian’s Bird Friendly® cacao certification. ABC had worked to implement best management practices with partner Zorral Cacao in the Dominican Republic, and 17 of the company’s cacao-supplying farms received the Smithsonian’s new certification. Habitats for birds such as wintering Bicknell’s Thrush are improving through these efforts.
- ◆ ABC and partners also planted more than 200,000 native and fruit trees in agricultural and ranching landscapes in Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Peru. These tree plantings have been undertaken in and around croplands and cattle pastures to create more migratory bird habitat and corridors. While the shade trees help crops and birds, the fruit trees increase sources of income for producers.
- ◆ This year saw the launch of our BirdsPlus program, which brings a three-fold approach to maintaining and enhancing migratory bird habitat: Best Management Practices for working lands; the BirdsPlus Fund to encourage investment; and the BirdsPlus Index, which will measure the biodiversity benefits of farms using birds as indicators.

- ◆ The BirdsPlus Fund is already showing that bird conservation projects in working lands can turn a profit. In Guatemala's Conservation Coast BirdScape, a 2018 investment of $100,000 was used to restore 60 acres of cattle pastures with cardamom agroforestry. After reinvesting the first payment for our investment in 2022, we received $8,000 as a second payment in 2023, which will be reinvested in more conservation — benefiting the Kentucky Warbler, Wood Thrush, and many other birds.

And, in Costa Rica, our project to restore cattle pastures with rubber-native tree plantations received a letter of support from tire maker Michelin. The company will provide the project with technical assistance to ensure its long-term sustainability to produce deforestation-free rubber that benefits birds and other wildlife.

Highlights of Migratory Bird Tracking

- ◆ Because we need to know where birds go in order to effectively conserve them, ABC's Northern Great Plains program in 2023 continued tracking Long-billed Curlews from their breeding grounds in the Dakotas to Texas wintering grounds and back — a project conducted with partners including Intermountain Bird Observatory.

- ◆ In locations from the Pacific Northwest to Central America, ABC is coordinating the expansion of the Motus Wildlife Tracking System, a network of stations that collects signals from digitally coded tags affixed to birds. We installed or improved 14 stations in 2023 and provided remote support on more than 30 other partner installations. The stations enable researchers to follow the movements of tagged migratory birds such as the Red Knot and Golden-winged Warbler across the continent, identifying critical areas for conservation.
- ◆ ABC's work with forest landowners in the southeast U.S., which included tracking five Swallow-tailed Kites, led to the discovery of a pre-migration roost of 600 kites on the Altamaha River in Georgia — the first of its kind outside of Florida. We can now work with partners, including the Georgia Department of Natural Resources, to ensure availability of roost sites in the future.

REDUCING THREATS TO ALL BIRDS

ABC works to reduce the impacts of human-caused dangers in bird habitats. These include poorly sited energy development; glass windows and night-time lighting; non-native predators such as free-roaming cats; and much more. In 2023, we made advances to minimize these threats in bird habitats from Brazil to Texas, in statehouses from Virginia to Hawai'i, and with Yale University and other partners.

Highlights:

- ◆ While ABC supports renewable energy, we push for facilities to minimize impacts on birds. Some places are simply inappropriate for wind energy, and the small area in Brazil that's home to the Endangered Lear's Macaw is one of them. In 2023, after several years of ABC advocacy and support to partners, a joint action lawsuit filed at state and federal levels was decided in favor of the rare macaw; the decision canceled French company Voltalia's licenses for a wind facility. However, appeals have been filed, and ABC and our Brazilian partners continue to push for relocation of the turbines out of the parrot's habitat.
- ◆ The small eastern population of the Golden Eagle is threatened by plans to increase wind energy production in the Appalachian Mountains. As a result, ABC is petitioning the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, as well as affected states, to list the Eastern Golden Eagle as a Threatened or Endangered Distinct Population Segment under the Endangered Species Act. Almost the entire population, 5,000 birds at most, uses the same Appalachian ridgelines that are favored for wind energy.
- ◆ In 2023, with Yale University, ABC published Building Safer Cities for Birds, an analysis of bird-friendly design mandates from five cities across the U.S. We also were instrumental in developing a bird-friendly design code adopted by the state of California and Maryland's new Sustainable Buildings Act, which requires that all newly built, acquired, or renovated state-owned buildings use bird-friendly windows and lighting.
- ◆ Domestic cats kill more than 2 billion birds each year in the U.S. alone. Changing society's outlook on cats is a long and difficult process, but ABC's Cats Indoors program scored several tangible successes in 2023. Working with partners, we successfully advocated for the defeat or revision of bills in Hawai'i, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas, and Virginia that would have led to more unowned cats on the landscape.
- ◆ After a SpaceX rocket exploded in April 2023, causing fires and littering habitats with fuselage parts, ABC and partners filed suit against the Federal Aviation Administration for failing to fully analyze and mitigate the environmental harms resulting from the SpaceX Starship/Super Heavy launch program at Boca Chica, Texas. The launch site sits next to prime habitat for protected species and migratory birds, including the Piping Plover. In spite of the danger to these habitats, wildlife, and people, the FAA has permitted SpaceX to launch 20 Starship/Super Heavy rockets each year for the next five years.
- ◆ ABC and our partner PEER led dozens of groups to ask the Environmental Protection Agency for major reforms focusing on the use of toxic neonicotinoids as agricultural seed coatings. In a positive advance, the agency is now considering input from stakeholders and industry experts.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Adam Smith, Motus U.S. Director

"I like all things bird and tech," says Adam, who helms ABC's efforts to boost U.S. coverage of Motus, a migration monitoring system tracking tagged birds across the Americas – and providing data to guide conservation efforts. His growing team works in close partnership with Motus' home organization, Birds Canada.

"What I love about the network is also what makes it really challenging — the collaborative nature of it," Adam says. "It's a network of people and organizations trying to answer their own questions, but by participating as members of the network, we are able to ask questions on a scale far grander than any one project can answer."

Adam grew up in Indiana, where in middle school he bought a beat-up field guide at a library book sale. "I was hooked from then on,"

he says. He studied hawk, songbird, and bat migration in graduate school at Boise State University and the University of Rhode Island. Before coming to ABC, he worked for seven years as a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service quantitative ecologist. Of his current perch, Adam says: "I have the freedom to identify things I know are important, and ABC gives me the freedom and support to accomplish them."

Adam stresses that while one of his team's goals is to help grow the Motus network in the U.S. and beyond, other aims are to support the existing network and develop best practices that standardize and simplify Motus' use. This, he says, will draw in larger institutions and ease expansion of the Motus network across the Americas.

BUILDING THE BIRD CONSERVATION MOVEMENT

To enhance results for birds, ABC works to build a vibrant bird conservation community throughout the Americas. These efforts provide a diverse array of partners with expertise and tools — and they in turn help us ensure that our work is equitable and sustainable. We provide learning opportunities and financial assistance to partner organizations; supply government leaders with recommendations on conserving priority species; help communities create habitats that support birds and welcome people; and more.

Highlights:

- ◆ The ABC-led Bird City Network launched in 2023 — a major step forward in our work to inspire bird conservation action. This hemisphere-wide effort offers communities the opportunity to be recognized for their efforts to conserve bird habitat and reduce threats to birds. A partnership with Environment for the Americas, Bird City Network provides tools and resources via birdcity.org. In 2023, communities earning Bird City status included Austin and Cedar Hill, Texas; Marquette, Iowa; and Santander de Quilichao, Colombia, the first in the world's birdiest nation.
- ◆ Hawai'i observed its first Honeycreepers Celebration Day on August 8 — the result of efforts by ABC and partners to elevate awareness of this unique and endangered group of birds. In 2022, a new school curriculum about native Hawaiian honeycreepers inspired students to advocate for the birds, and in March 2023, the state's House of Representatives voted to recognize the event annually.
- ◆ In 2023, the Latin American Reserve Stewardship Initiative (LARSI), a project of ABC and March Conservation Fund, assisted 10 ABC partner organizations in South America and the Caribbean with efforts to improve the management and financial sustainability of reserves that protect threatened birds. Supported activities included development of tourism infrastructure at the Bosque de las Nubes Reserve in the Dominican Republic and delivery of new vehicles to enable our Colombian partners to more easily patrol and manage bird reserves. Over the past nine years, LARSI has awarded more than $2.9 million to 24 conservation organizations in six countries.
- ◆ ABC's inaugural class of eight Conservation and Justice Fellows completed their projects in 2023, including paintings, story maps, guidelines for community engagement, and insights about embedding Indigenous grassland management techniques into bird conservation. We're proud that Jamie K. Reaser and J. Drew Lanham, editors of the inspiring anthology Dawn Songs: A Birdwatcher's Field Guide to the Poetics of Migration, directed the book's proceeds to support ABC's fellowship program. We will be launching a new round of Conservation and Justice Fellowship Projects in 2024, on topics including Lost Birds, environmental education, neurodiversity, and international partnerships for migratory bird conservation.
- ◆ ABC worked with Project Learning Tree to publish an activity collection for elementary school students called Together for Birds. We created a seed grants program called Story Seeds — awards of $1,000 to carry out independent research and create a single story about an aspect of inclusive birding, ethical bird conservation, or related topics. And, we began hosting inclusive birding events, including a celebration of Pride Month in June at the National Arboretum with our partner Latino Outdoors.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Kevin Ellison, Program Manager, Northern Great Plains

Kevin completed 12 years of higher education focused on bird research across North America and Australia. Yet, he says with conviction, “I got my ‘real’ education in 4-H.”

Growing up in northwest Illinois, Kevin spent many hours observing wildlife. “I got into 4-H, raising sheep,” he says. “Then I discovered that 4-H had conservation projects, and I signed on to five years’ worth.” That work, enhancing wildlife habitat, was a turning point for Kevin.

After receiving his undergraduate degree, Kevin left Illinois on an academic odyssey that took him across North America while pursuing his doctorate. “I was a reverse snowbird,” he says, “doing my fieldwork in summers in South Texas along the Mexican border, then my academic work in winters in Winnipeg. In the same year, I had a car battery melt and another one freeze.” He followed that with a five-year post-doctoral project on grassland birds.

Today, Kevin still covers a lot of ground, mostly across the Northern Great Plains. “I often joke that our commutes are long but the traffic is light and the scenery is beautiful,” he says. He manages a full roster of annual projects, including volunteer-led Long-billed Curlew surveys, efforts to tag various grassland birds to track migrations, and more.

“Grasslands and grassland birds are ecological underdogs: nuanced, under-appreciated, misunderstood, and declining,” he says. “I enjoy sharing with all audiences discoveries about grasslands — like bird migrations, carbon storage by grasses, or hidden species like the Chihuahuan Meadowlark — and how important these habitats are right in the center of the country.”

FALCON CLUB & PROJECT SUPPORTERS

We are honored to acknowledge the individuals, foundations, businesses, and others who have supported ABC's work. While space constraints prevent us from listing all of our donors, we are sincerely grateful for each member and every gift. We would also like to thank those who gave anonymously through the United Way or Combined Federal Campaign (CFC #12048).

The Falcon Club is our pivotal group of members who donate unrestricted gifts of $1,000 or more each year. Members of this group (denoted in purple) collectively form a cornerstone in the success of all of our bird conservation programs and projects.
