
IMPACT REPORT 2021

STRATEGIC BIRD CONSERVATION FRAMEWORK

MISSION: ABC is dedicated to conserving wild birds and their habitats throughout the Americas.

HOW WE WORK: With an emphasis on achieving results and working in partnership, we take on the greatest problems facing birds today, innovating and building on rapid advancements in science to halt extinctions of endangered birds, protect habitats for birds of conservation concern, eliminate threats to all birds, and build capacity for bird conservation.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Partners and Supporters,

I'm pleased to present our 2021 Impact Report, along with our 2021 Conservation Impact Scorecard!

American Bird Conservancy (ABC) had a tremendous year in all respects: Our membership is way up, finances are strong, and as you'll read in these pages, our staff and partners achieved truly inspiring results for birds. I hope you'll enjoy reading a few examples of our progress in these pages — from the establishment of the first protected areas for Mexico's Short-crested Coquette, to restored habitat in Missouri making it possible for Red-headed Woodpeckers and a full suite of other species to thrive.

If I had to summarize ABC's work in two words, I'd say: bird habitat. We keep focused on the species science says are a priority — the ones at risk of disappearing forever, like the Palila in Hawai'i, and those experiencing alarming population declines. The Eastern Whip-poor-will and Chestnut-collared Longspur are two that come to mind. Then we give all we've got to conserve the places these birds need and to reduce the threats they face.

Saving a place for birds. That's what ABC is all about. Although many challenges lie ahead for birds, this report and accompanying scorecard chart progress made and fuel our optimism. We are making a measurable difference.

This work and these results happened because of your support. On behalf of the entire American Bird Conservancy staff, thank you! Together, as surely as birdsong in spring, we're making progress toward a healthier, more hopeful planet.

P.S. In order to get this report on ABC's 2021 results to you as quickly as possible, we are releasing it without our audited financial statement. Please look for this information later in 2022.

ENDANGERED BIRDS

ABC and our Latin American, Caribbean, and Hawaiian partners contributed to a brighter future for some of the Western Hemisphere's rarest birds in 2021, overcoming challenges presented by the global pandemic, political unrest, and natural disasters. Together, we protected almost 94,000 acres of habitat in reserves or through conservation agreements — about 10 times as much as in 2020. That's an area twice the size of Washington, D.C. — but most important, it's habitat protected in exactly the right places to stave off bird extinctions and help populations rebound.

- ◆ More than 2,900 bird species find refuge in ABC-supported reserves (66 percent of all bird species found in the Americas). Among the rarest is the Red-fronted Macaw, a Critically Endangered species found only in Bolivia and numbering around 1,100 — up from 807 in 2012. ABC is proud to have supported Fundación Natura Bolivia's efforts for the species in 2021, which included conserving more than 12,000 acres of dry forest and arid scrub habitat.
- ◆ ABC continues work to bring endangered hummingbirds back from the brink of extinction, including Peru's Gray-bellied Comet and Purple-backed Sunbeam. In 2021, we supported our partner Asociación Ecosistemas Andino's (ECOAN's) planting of more than 65,000 native plants to improve the species' habitats. In addition, Mexico's Critically Endangered Short-crested Coquette is getting its first protected areas: 16,000 acres of tropical forest are being safeguarded across four new reserves, thanks to local partners and ABC. And, we helped Fundación de Conservación Jocotoco add nearly 800 acres of Ecuadorian páramo to the Cerro de Arcos Reserve, established in 2020 to save habitat for the recently named and rare Blue-throated Hillstar.
- ◆ Our search for "lost birds" in the Americas continued in 2021 and successfully documented the Urich's Tyrannulet in Venezuela (last observed 16 years ago). Boosting this work to a global scale, ABC joined with Re:wild and BirdLife International to launch the "Search for Lost Birds," which aims to find and conserve 10 species that have not been seen in at least 10 years.

- ◆ Our work to prevent bird extinctions is most urgent in Hawai'i, where 17 of 50 native honeycreepers such as the Palila and Kiwikiu survive in dwindling numbers. A multi-agency partnership involving ABC reached a milestone in 2021 when the state of Hawai'i approved permits for "Birds, Not Mosquitoes"— an all-out effort to reduce the primary threat to Hawaiian forest birds: avian diseases carried by the non-native insects.
- ◆ Meanwhile, on the Hawaiian island of Kaua'i, a single 'Ua'u (Hawaiian Petrel) egg was laid in the ABC-supported haven at Nihokū (Kīlauea Point National Wildlife Refuge) — and while it did not hatch, the event was an important milestone in ABC and its partners' efforts to create a thriving, predator-free colony of endangered seabirds. Both 'Ua'u and 'A'o, or Newell's Shearwater, had been translocated years earlier to Nihokū as chicks; after maturing at sea, individuals of both species are returning to the site in greater numbers each year, and we're optimistic that they will eventually raise young.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Marcelo Tognelli, International Project Officer

Marcelo grew up in a small town in central Argentina. “We didn’t have any TV,” he explains. “Our entertainment was spending a lot of time outdoors, walking in the foothills.” Nesting Rufous Horneros were among his neighbors; the Fork-tailed Flycatcher’s sudden appearance signaled spring; and the Black-chested Buzzard-Eagle provided inspiration whenever it glided overhead.

As a young adult, Marcelo brought his love of nature to Argentina’s Universidad Nacional de Córdoba, where he studied biology for his undergraduate degree. Then, he earned a Ph.D. in ecology from the University of California, Davis. During post-doctoral work in Chile, Marcelo used spatial analysis to identify conservation priorities at a nationwide scale. Subsequently, he worked for over a decade assessing species’ risk of global extinction for the International Union for Conservation of Nature’s Red List of Threatened Species.

Today, Marcelo collaborates with ABC’s vital Latin American partners in Ecuador, Honduras, and northeastern Brazil, managing projects that create or expand protected areas, reforest community land, and build the capacity of local partners. This work benefits Critically Endangered birds from the Lilacine Amazon to the Banded Cotinga.

The results of Marcelo’s work, however, reach beyond the feathered realm: “When you work on conservation of birds, you open an umbrella that shelters a wide variety of species,” he says. And that includes humans, because many ABC-supported projects involve local communities in reserve projects and when restoring forests through tree-planting.

Conserving Habitat for

BIRDS OF CONCERN

The loss of almost 3 billion birds in the U.S. and Canada since 1970 — documented in the groundbreaking 2019 Science paper — must be addressed by reversing the habitat loss driving the declines. Working with many partners, ABC has now restored and enhanced more than 8.5 million acres for priority species, focusing on ABC BirdScapes to provide habitat for breeding, wintering, and migratory stopovers. Our habitat conservation partners range from multi-stakeholder Migratory Bird Joint Ventures (JVs) to local community groups and NGOs in Latin America and the Caribbean.

Highlights: the United States

- ◆ ABC continues to staff and support the Central Hardwoods Joint Venture's (CHJV's) efforts to manage key Midwestern habitats for declining birds. In 2021, the CHJV improved more than 146,000 acres of forests and woodlands, and planted or managed 14,770 acres of native grasses. In Missouri's Current River Hills BirdScape, habitat restoration efforts are benefiting priority birds such as the Red-headed Woodpecker, Prairie Warbler, and Eastern Whip-poor-will. The work of the CHJV was recognized by the USDA Forest Service with a 2021 Chief's Honor Award for forest restoration efforts that enabled the successful 2020 reintroduction of the Brown-headed Nuthatch to the region.
- ◆ The ABC-led Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture (AMJV), working with a network of 20 federal, state, university, and nongovernmental partners, recently completed a five-year Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP) grant from the USDA-National Resources Conservation Service to enhance habitat for Cerulean Warblers. Working with more than 240 private landowners, this project enhanced nearly 9,000 forested acres in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland and enrolled 8,200 acres into the Pennsylvania Chapter of The Nature Conservancy's Working Woodlands easement program. It also restored almost 700 acres of surface mines in Ohio and Kentucky that will — in time — mature into quality native hardwood forest habitat.
- ◆ Another just-concluded RCPP grant enabled ABC to complete work on 6,772 acres of private lands in the Great Lakes area (Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan), creating ideal habitat for the Golden-winged Warbler, American Woodcock, and other early successional habitat species. On public lands, these same species benefited from support from the Minnesota Outdoor Heritage Fund: Since 2013, 7,550 acres of early successional habitat have been restored and enhanced across 13 Minnesota counties in partnership with 22 public and tribal agencies.
- ◆ Also in Minnesota, ABC is working to increase the resilience of forests against anticipated Emerald Ash Borer infestation in Black Ash-dominated stands. In 2021, working with public and tribal partners via the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative (GLRI), ABC planted 19,500 hardwood tree seedlings that will emulate the ecosystem role played by ash trees that are likely to be lost to the ash borer. ABC is continuing this work in 2022, aiming to keep the wet, lowland forests now dominated by Black Ash functioning as breeding and migratory stopover habitat for a wide range of birds, such as the Golden-winged Warbler, Ovenbird, Veery, and Northern Waterthrush. These Minnesota forests also provide nesting locations for Great Blue Herons and edge habitat used by foraging Ruffed Grouse.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Amanda Duren, Director of Conservation Partnerships, Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture

"As a kid I always loved playing outside," says Amanda, "and I was driven by wanting to know what everything was, to be a naturalist." Her interest in the natural world only grew with age. After earning a Bachelor's degree from Pennsylvania State University in environmental resource management, Amanda interned with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Forsythe National Wildlife Refuge in New Jersey. "On the first day, we helped hold and band Peregrine Falcon chicks. That was when I really discovered birds and that wildlife could be a career." The experience inspired Amanda to earn a Master's in wildlife ecology at the University of Delaware.

Amanda first joined ABC and the ABC-led Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture (AMJV) in 2015 as coordinator for Cerulean Warbler forest enhancement work in Pennsylvania, before becoming the AMJV Habitat Delivery Coordinator in 2018. She now has a lead role in helping to build and maintain the AMJV's partnership of more than 55 state and federal agencies, nonprofits, land trusts, and academic institutions.

"My job really comes down to making sure our partners have what they need to improve habitat for birds in the Appalachians," she says. "Sometimes this is information to help guide management actions; other times, partners need funding and staff capacity to meet habitat management goals. We collaborate on grant proposals to help get these resources."

To Amanda, working together is more than just the right thing to do: "In the end," she says, "the only way we'll be successful in conservation is through effective partnership and collaboration."

- ◆ The Oaks and Prairies Joint Venture (OPJV), led by ABC, continued to deliver conservation through their Grassland Restoration Incentive Program (GRIP), which provides direct payments to landowners as an incentive for improving bird habitat. In 2021, the OPJV worked with landowners to manage 5,773 acres for birds such as the Northern Bobwhite — a species that has declined by 90 percent in the region. Other birds that benefit from GRIP include the Dickcissel, Eastern Meadowlark, and Painted Bunting.
- ◆ The Texas Longleaf Implementation Team — a group of partners led by ABC and the Lower Mississippi Valley Joint Venture — was recognized with a 2021 Texan by Nature Conservation Wrangler award for improving 41,000 acres of Longleaf Pine habitat since 2014. The work benefits birds including the Northern Bobwhite and Red-headed Woodpecker.
- ◆ Through our Managed Forests for Birds initiative, ABC worked with partners at International Paper and the Avian Research and Conservation Institute to tag three Swallow-tailed Kites with GPS transmitters near Georgetown, South Carolina, in 2021. The resulting data showed the kites' successful migration to wintering grounds in Brazil and later influenced landowner management of breeding habitats to favor successful nesting. The work is set to expand in 2022-24.
- ◆ ABC's Gulf Coast program was honored by the Galveston, Texas Park Board of Trustees with a Resolution of Appreciation for our partnership of more than seven years. During that time, ABC has helped Texas Parks find a balance between the needs of birds that nest in the Upper Texas Coast BirdScape, such as Least Terns and Black Skimmers, and human visitors.
- ◆ In California's Southwest Riparian BirdScape, birds that nest along waterways, like the Southwestern Willow Flycatcher and Western Yellow-billed Cuckoo, have all but disappeared due to loss of habitat; they are listed as Endangered and Threatened, respectively, under the U.S. Endangered Species Act. In 2021, ABC staff helped private landowners improve more than 400 acres of habitat for riparian birds.
- ◆ In 2021, the ABC-led Rio Grande JV and partners completed work on more than 14,625 acres across two BirdScapes: the Big Bend Riparian BirdScape, coordinated under the Chihuahuan Desert Conservation Partnership, and the South Texas Plains BirdScape, supported by the South Texas Grassland Restoration Incentive Program (GRIP). The work improved habitat for the Yellow-billed Cuckoo and Gray Hawk in riparian areas and the Baird's Sparrow and Northern Bobwhite in grasslands.
- ◆ ABC supported private landowners in Oregon's Willamette Valley who took action to enhance 400 acres of habitat for the Oregon Vesper Sparrow, a subspecies numbering fewer than 3,000. In Washington, ABC supported a partnership effort in the Klickitat Canyon that attained the milestone of 11,000 acres under conservation, benefiting — among many other species — a nesting pair of Northern Spotted Owls. Also in Klickitat Canyon, Flammulated Owl habitat restoration was completed on 95 acres through a Neotropical Migratory Bird Conservation Act (NMBCA) grant.
- ◆ In 2021, the Northern Great Plains (NGP) program continued its vital work to conserve habitat for grassland birds such as the Lark Bunting, Chestnut-collared Longspur, and Long-billed Curlew. The majority of land here is in private ownership, so partnering with landowners, such as ranchers, is key. The NGP provided technical assistance on more than 100,000 acres; improved management on 24,143 acres; and worked to restore 606 acres — including agreements for replacement of 22 windmills with solar-powered pumps, which reduces artificial lookout perches for raptors that prey on ground-nesting birds.

Highlights: Latin America and the Caribbean

- Migratory birds such as Golden-winged, Cerulean, and Canada Warblers, as well as the Bicknell's Thrush, were the focus of ABC-supported tree-planting projects with 10 partners in eight countries: Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Honduras, Jamaica, Nicaragua, Peru, and Venezuela. In total, more than 172,000 trees were planted to enhance 928 acres of habitat.
- Our longstanding partnership with Pronatura Noreste in Mexico continues to enhance habitat for species including the migratory Mountain Plover and resident Worthen's Sparrow. In 2021, we worked on nearly 8,000 acres of grassland in the El Tokio BirdScape, removing invasive plants and erecting fences to exclude cattle on communal lands.
- Through our pilot Impact Investing projects in Latin America, we continue to explore how activities that benefit birds can also generate returns for investors. For example, in Guatemala, ABC and partner FUNDAECO harvested the first cardamom from our shade-grown cardamom investment project in the Conservation Coast BirdScape. By restoring cattle pastures with agroforestry systems, like our mixed cardamom and native trees project, we are able to benefit migratory birds such as the Kentucky Warbler and Worm-eating Warbler. Any revenues generated from the sale of cardamom will be reinvested into the restoration of more degraded lands, which could scale the project up to thousands of acres.
- In Venezuela, the first batch of Organic- and Bird Friendly-certified coffee from an agroforestry project with partner Provita has gone to market. ABC support enabled 39 producers to be certified as Organic and 13 as Bird Friendly, which has helped increase their earnings on sales six-fold. Among the species benefiting from these efforts: the Bay-breasted Warbler, Canada Warbler, Golden-winged Warbler, and Swainson's Thrush.
- The rapidly declining Wood Thrush is one of the many migratory birds that winter in Honduras' tropical forests (Agalta-Lost City BirdScape). To provide a winter refuge, an agreement to safeguard more than 61,000 acres was reached in 2021 by the Bakinasta Indigenous community (which owns the land), ABC, and the Wildlife Conservation Society.

Reducing Threats to

ALL BIRDS

Year after year, we make progress on reducing the impacts of the biggest human-caused dangers to birds, including the threat and lure of glass windows and night-time lighting; wind turbines or oil and gas drilling in important bird habitats; non-native predators such as free-roaming cats; and much more. In 2021, this work took place in states from Hawai'i to Maine, and from the halls of Congress to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

- ◆ To fight climate change, ABC supports renewable energy and the transition away from fossil fuels. At the same time, we oppose some renewable energy projects that present unacceptably high risks to birds. For example, in 2021, ABC raised concerns about New York's Heritage Wind, proposed in a site adjacent to a national wildlife refuge. This input contributed to the 2022 decision to remove the six highest-risk turbines from the plan.
- ◆ ABC and the Kaua'i National Wildlife Refuge Complex removed 63 feral cats from two national wildlife refuges between December 2020 and June 2021. The refuges are home to the Hawaiian Common Gallinule ('Alae 'Ula) and other Endangered ground-nesting birds that are especially vulnerable to cat depredation.
- ◆ ABC opened a second glass "testing tunnel," doubling our capacity to rate materials for their ability to deter bird collisions. In fall 2021, between the two testing facilities, we evaluated 33 products for 12 companies from six countries; ran six research trials; and tested one new homeowner product under development by ABC.
- ◆ In New York City, ABC's Glass Collisions staff worked with designers on renovation plans for the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Michael C. Rockefeller Wing. This site ultimately met stringent standards for bird-friendly glass set out by the city's Local Law 15, enacted in 2020 following input and testimony from ABC. ABC also consulted on glass for several other major structures in New York, including offices for The Walt Disney Company.
- ◆ The SPLASH (Stopping Plastics and Litter Along Shorelines) program — launched in mid-2020 — has removed 12,230 pounds of trash and plastics from Texas coastlines, surpassing its three-year goal in just a year and a half! The program is led by ABC and, with partners like Gulf Coast Bird Observatory, aims to reduce threats to beach-nesting birds, such as the Snowy Plover.
- ◆ Working with the National Audubon Society, ABC developed a policy response to the loss of nearly 3 billion birds described in the well-known 2019 Science paper. The "Bring Birds Back" initiative seeks $20 million in U.S. federal funding increases for bird conservation needs, such as the work of the Migratory Bird Joint Ventures — multi-partner collaborations located across the U.S., many led by ABC staff. Gaining traction, "Bring Birds Back" helped to secure an $800,000 increase for bird conservation in the 2022 spending agreement.
- ◆ While the Bird-Safe Buildings Act (H.R. 1986/S. 871), long an ABC advocacy priority, has not yet become law, a heartening step was made in 2021: An appropriations bill passed by the House directed U.S. Department of the Interior agencies to adopt the Act's bird-safe materials and design provisions.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Anikó Tótha, Bird Collision Glass Testing Program Coordinator

As a child growing up in New York, Anikó belonged to the Hungarian Scout Association, which kindled her love for nature because, she says, “we were always outside hiking and camping at all times of the year. Also, my father bred homing pigeons, so I have always loved birds,” she adds.

Anikó earned her undergraduate degree in environmental science at Ramapo College of New Jersey, followed by a Master’s in biology from Miami University of Ohio. Then, within a 10-year span, she worked with several organizations doing field work focusing on various bird species, from hummingbirds to cormorants. She also worked at the Wildlife Conservation Society’s Bronx Zoo as a keeper in the bird collection.

At ABC, Anikó works to prevent birds from becoming collision victims. She manages ABC’s two glass-testing tunnels: one at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History’s Powdermill Nature Reserve in Pennsylvania and a new one that opened in 2021 at Washington College’s Foreman’s Branch Bird Observatory in Maryland. She also works with glass manufacturers and architectural firms to determine whether or not glass and buildings can be considered bird friendly, and to ensure they align with ABC’s criteria and/or local law.

The second tunnel could not have opened soon enough for Anikó. “There’s a huge uptick in demand for having more bird-friendly materials available because of recent legislation being passed and with more people privy to the concerns about glass collisions,” she explains. “It’s very exciting and encouraging, but there is still much work to do and tons to learn!”

DRIVE BIRD CONSERVATION

To enhance results for birds, ABC works to build a vibrant bird conservation community throughout the Americas. These efforts provide a diverse array of partners with expertise and tools — from supplying government leaders with data on priority sites and species to equipping on-the-ground partners with needed gear. Ranchers, members of Congress, fishers, nonprofits, universities, beach-goers, and many others: When it comes to achieving long-lasting bird conservation results, all have important roles to play.

- ◆ As the COVID-19 pandemic persisted into 2021, the Latin American Reserve Stewardship Initiative (LARSI) — a joint program of ABC and March Conservation Fund — provided 10 ABC partners with emergency relief to replace lost revenue normally generated through tourism at ABC-supported bird reserves. LARSI support also:
 - Helped partners address threats, such as enabling Fundación ProAves Colombia to expel illegal loggers from the El Pangán Reserve in the western Andes — home to the Endangered Baudo Guan and Black-and-chestnut Eagle, along with the Toucan Barbet and hundreds of other bird species.
 - Supported renovations at the Fundación para la Conservación de los Andes Tropicales (FCAT) reserve in northwestern Ecuador, enabling the reserve to accommodate income-generating research courses. FCAT protects rare, intact Chocó habitat where the Endangered Banded Ground-Cuckoo finds refuge.
 - Covered infrastructure improvements and a new vehicle to improve the Bahamas National Trust's ability to manage and patrol Blue Holes National Park on Andros, a key site for the Endangered Bahama Oriole.
- ◆ In Guatemala, ABC supported partner FUNDAECO with the installation of four Motus Wildlife Tracking System stations. Data from the towers will help us track and better understand the conservation needs of migratory birds.
- ◆ ABC is partnering with BirdLife International, the National Audubon Society, and RedLAC on the Conserva Aves initiative, which will establish protected areas for birds in Latin America. The initiative will receive a $12 million grant from Bezos Earth Fund, to be distributed among partners over the next five years.
- ◆ A toolkit to help government agencies manage domestic cats on agency lands is now available, thanks to ABC's Cats Indoors program and the Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies. The product will help managers address the threat posed by cats to native wildlife.
- ◆ ABC's Bird City Network program is moving forward with efforts to help communities make their natural areas, parks, main streets, and backyards better for birds and for people. In 2021, Bird City staff put more building blocks in place in anticipation of a full launch in 2023. ABC is coordinating the 10 existing independent Bird City programs for greater impact; a pilot Bird City program is underway in Mexico with partner Environment for the Americas; and development of materials is in full swing.
- ◆ We believe bird conservation is more effective and sustainable when principles of justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion (JEDI) are embedded within our culture and work. Our JEDI efforts in 2021 included initiating an equity study; developing a Conservation and Justice Fellowship program; and working with Birdability on a webinar series featuring birders with disabilities.

STAFF HIGHLIGHT

Naamal De Silva, Chief Diversity Officer

"My role as Chief Diversity Officer is a relatively new one at ABC," says Naamal. "Internally, I help ensure that all of us feel a sense of belonging and feel valued as we race to bring back the birds. Externally, I work with partners to help expand the 'seats at the table' within the field of conservation, and to consider local communities' needs in the places where ABC works, so we can act together to save birds."

Naamal traces her love for nature to early childhood rambles in her family's garden in Panadura, Sri Lanka. At the age of 11, five years after moving to Washington, D.C., she attended an Earth Day celebration on the National Mall. "I came home with a stack of flyers on different environmental issues and studied those, and that really had an impact," she says.

Naamal went on to major in biology at Swarthmore College, followed by a Master's in environmental management from Yale's School of the Environment. Then, after a decade of working on international biodiversity conservation, she earned a doctorate in education at George Washington University with the goal of understanding how best to get a larger number and greater diversity of people to care for the planet.

"At a time when fissures within society are so close to the surface," says Naamal, "ABC's work to advance justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion helps us to focus explicitly on respect, kindness, and healing. Our work to protect birds and their habitats is both urgent and a long game. We need to support each other along the way."

Alan and his son Bob Weeden, who also served on ABC's Board and is a long-term supporter.

IN MEMORIAM: Alan Norman Weeden MAY 16, 1924 – SEPTEMBER 28, 2021

ABC champion and former Board member, Alan Weeden passed away on September 28, 2021, surrounded by family in Greenwich, Connecticut. His passing is a great loss for ABC and the many conservation organizations he inspired and supported through the years.

A native of California, Alan was a champion swimmer, attended Stanford University, and served in World War II as a U.S. Navy officer. At Weeden & Co., a securities dealer founded by his father, he headed the bond department, then ran the firm as president and CEO. He turned his focus to conservation in 1979 after a long and storied career on Wall Street, becoming president of the Weeden Foundation — a vital source of funding for many biodiversity-focused groups — in 1985.

Alan became an avid birder after his first trip to East Africa in 1963. An enthusiastic traveler, he ultimately achieved a life list of more than 4,500 species and never lost his sense of adventure.

Alan served on ABC's Board of Directors from 1995 to 2004. "Alan's impact on ABC cannot be overstated," said ABC's Merrie Morrison. "His service on the Board and his commitment to bird conservation helped make ABC what it is today. We will miss him."

IN MEMORIAM: David Lee Davidson APRIL 22, 1935 – SEPTEMBER 17, 2021

David Davidson, ABC Board member and steadfast conservationist of San Antonio, Texas, passed away on Sept. 17, 2021. A former Eagle Scout and U.S. Navy officer, David obtained a Ph.D. in materials science/mechanical engineering at Rice University.

After a long and successful career in materials science — including the publication of more than 200 technical papers and international renown for his research — David worked for 20 years to restore his Texas Hill country property with native plants. He shared this labor of love with his wife Patricia, with whom he also enjoyed birding in many parts of the world.

“David and Patricia gave generously to ABC and our Latin American partners annually since 2005, consistently supporting research to guide conservation, the establishment and expansion of many bird reserves, and the construction or improvement of reserve infrastructure,” said ABC President Mike Parr. “Time and time again, the Davidsons catalyzed our international bird conservation projects and made the difference between a project happening or not.”

David served on the ABC Board from 2015 until his passing. “Many of the world’s rarest birds have a brighter future because of the Davidsons’ love and concern,” said Parr. “David’s legacy will live on.”
